Washington State Department of Labor and Industries

Ron Fuller, Chief Electrical Inspector

Vol. 7 No. 8

August 2004

Electrical Inspectors Recognized for Special Work

Tukwila L&I Electrical Inspectors (from the left: Jack Oxford – supervisor, Steve Leighton and Chris Fontana – inspectors) were recognized by Chief Electrical Inspector, Ron Fuller on July 16th for their extraordinary work. He gave personal thanks and acknowledgment for their efforts in special oversight inspections. The inspections were politically sensitive and technically challenging on a complex electrical system in the late stages of construction.

The time spent away from their inspection areas placed additional stress on the performance of their regular inspection duties. Oxford, Leighton, and Fontana showed that they are "Team Players" willing to make personal sacrifices for the good of the entire electrical inspection program. They demonstrated a high degree of technical competency and represented the department in an exemplary professional manner. The Electrical Program is fortunate to have them as a part of the electrical inspection team.

Anti-fraud effort underway by Paul Trause, Director

We often hear the Department of Labor and Industries (L&I) doesn't do enough to combat fraud and abuse in the workers' compensation insurance system, particularly in regard to unregistered contractors who don't pay premiums.

L&I has stepped up its anti-fraud efforts, and recently the Legislature gave us powerful new tools to go after workers, providers and employers who cheat the system.

A big challenge is businesses that owe L&I insurance premiums and then close their doors to avoid payment, reopening under a slightly different name or a new owner. With the new "Successorship Liability" provision, the debt can now transfer to the new owner along with such things as leased equipment and company phone numbers. We also can now hold officers of a company, LLC or partnership personally liable for unpaid premiums when the business terminates or is abandoned.

The "Prime Contractor Liability," provision in the law gives general contractors a way to protect themselves from having to pay the L&I premiums for the subcontractors they hire. Contractors still must make sure subcontractors meet the four criteria for being a separate and independent business. If the subcontractor meets those criteria, all the general contractor has to do is check once a year on the status of that subcontractor's account with L&I. Contractors can do that on-line, or by phone.

Washington's workers' compensation system is one of the best in the country, providing employers with affordable coverage and workers with the benefits they need to recover from a job-related injury or illness. Making sure that claims are legitimate, and that all employers accurately report hours worked and pay the premiums they owe, are essential to maintaining the system's integrity.

Happy Birthday to Our Most "Senior" Active Electrician!!

Journeyman Howard A. Sloan from Woodinville, WA was born in June 1920. He earns the Washington state distinction as the most golden of the golden agers of the 22,000 active certified electricians. We wanted to interview Mr. Sloan to learn his secret for a long productive life, but his wife told us he is out of state for the next several months working full-time for an electrical contractor.

Emergency Rules – WAC 296-46B, Electrical Safety Standards, Administration, and Installation

The department recently implemented an emergency rule. After meeting with stakeholders and the Electrical Board, the following changes were made to Chapter 296-46B WAC. The emergency rule was effective August 2, 2004.

Electrical Section Internet Address: www.Lni.wa.gov/TradesLicensing/electrical

The department will move to permanently incorporate these changes into rule. A CR 101 has been filed and public hearings will be held in Tumwater and Moses Lake at a date and time to be announced.

WAC 296-46B-900 (8) As required by chapter 19.28 RCW or this chapter, an electrical work permit is required for the installation, alteration, or maintenance of all electrical systems or equipment except for:

- (a) Travel trailers;
- (b) Class A basic electrical work which includes the like-in-kind replacement of a: Contactor, relay, timer, starter, circuit board, or similar control component; household appliance; circuit breaker; fuse; residential luminaire; lamp; snap switch; dimmer; receptacle outlet; thermostat; heating element; luminaire ballast with an exact same ballast; component(s) of electric signs, outline lighting, skeleton neon tubing when replaced on-site by an appropriate electrical contractor and when the sign, outline lighting or skeleton neon tubing electrical system is not modified; ten horsepower or smaller motor; and induction detection loops described in WAC 296-46B-300(2) and used to control gate access devices.

WAC 296-46B-970(5) Instructor approval process:

- (a) Instructor approval will be valid for three years except:
  - (i) If the instructor's credentials are invalidated (e.g., suspension or revocation by the issuing entity) for any reason, approval will be automatically revoked.
  - (ii) When the instructor approval expires or is revoked, a new application must be submitted to regain approved instructor status.
- (b) Minimum requirements:
  - (i) The application must show that the instructor meets one of the following:
    - (A) Has a valid Washington:
      - General administrator's Administrator, master electrician, or electrician's certificate; andor
      - General master electrician's certificate; and
      - Has appropriate knowledge of and experience working as an electrical/electronic trainer; or
    - (B) Is accredited by the Washington work force training and education coordinating board. The instructor's normal duties must include providing electrical/electronic education; or
    - (C) Is a high school vocational teacher, community college, college, or university instructor. The instructor's normal duties must include providing electrical/electronic education; or
    - (D) Works for and is approved by a manufacturer of electrical products to teach electrical continuing education.; or(E) For first aid classes is certified by the Red Cross or other similar agency as a first aid instructor; and
  - (ii) Any other information the applicant wants to be considered during the review..

Electrical Question of the Month

This Month's Question: No parts of a pendant, lighting track, ceiling suspended paddle fan, or hanging type fixture can be located within a zone of how many feet horizontally and vertically from the top of a bathtub rim? A)  $1', 6', \mathbf{B}) 1'/2', 7', \mathbf{C}) 2', 7 1/2', \mathbf{D}) 3', 8'$ .

Last Month's Question: What is the mandatory marking required for all device and junction boxes (6 x 6 and smaller) in systems defined in the NEC as emergency systems? A) Permanently marked so they will be readily identified as a component of an emergency circuit or system, B) With an identification plate substantially yellow in color with letters, minimum ½" high, stating EMERGENCY SYSTEM, C) Painted inside and out substantially orange in color, D) Painted inside and out substantially red in color. The answer is: C) [WAC 296-46B-700(4)]

Quarterly Compliance Report

This report lists the final judgments for: no electrical contractor's license, hiring uncertified electricians, no electrician certification, and failure to obtain necessary electrical work permits. The report is also posted on the Electrical Program website. The following firms and persons received a final judgment during the 2nd quarter of 2004. A final judgment means that all rights of appeal have been exhausted and a penalty is due or has been paid.
